Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1336351A2] The ring (1) or pendant is provided with a recess (4), preferably cone-shaped (8), for the in insertion of the preferably pointed lower area of a precious stone (3), in particular a diamond. A metal bow (6) is guided across the stone (3) but kept at a distance in order to facilitate a slight motion of the stone (3). The light is reflected by varying areas dependent on the user moving his/her hands, creating a unique and attractive effect. There can also be versions with more than one stone (3) or with several bows (6).
