Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0237424A1] The invention relates to a method for providing postal deliveries with postage-paid stamps. The inventive method is characterised as follows: designs for letters are created in a computer; the anticipated delivery data for the finished letters is determined, based on the information contained in the designs; the delivery data is registered and forwarded to a module via an interface and the module processes the delivery data and assigns a unique delivery number to each delivery.
