Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0241568A2] The invention relates to a method and a device for controlling domestic appliances in addition to a control system. The aim of the invention is to provide a method, corresponding device and control system enabling an additional function selected by a user to be made available at any particular moment. In order to achieve said aim, a domestic appliance (2) is connected to a distributed network (3) and receives individual control information (7) via said network (3) which is evaluated and/or transformed at a location (A) of said domestic appliance (2) for control purposes.
