Abstract (en)

Processing data from an electronic financial transaction (600) with invoice items (I) and credit items (C) is performed as follows: A first computer (901) provides a page (300) with a plurality of representations of monetary amounts (310) relating to the invoice items (I) and credit items (C) and with instructions (320) and sends the page (300) to a second computer (902). The second computer (902) interprets the instructions by a browser to receiving a list selection from a user and - according to the selection - to display a list with invoice items and credit items on a screen (952).
