Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1340706A2] The procedure for the filling and changing over of card slivers (11,12,12a) with a rectangular cross section in a spinning machine involves moving each card sliver bottom up and down by an external means of lifting (22). During the filling process of a first card sliver, its bottom is slowly lowered, and the bottom of a second card sliver connected to the first is raised at least partially. The external means of lifting during the end phase of the filling of the first card sliver can is moved away from the first card sliver in order to lift the bottom of the second card sliver before filling it. An Independent claim is included for a device for the carrying out of the proposed filling and changing over card slivers in a spinning machine.
