Abstract (en)
[origin: WO0247763A1] A strap for respirator masks comprises a head strap piece (1), made from elastically flexible synthetic material, with a strap fixing piece (5) and a head plate (4) with a greater wall thickness than the attached head straps (6). A neck strap, connected to the mask at two fixing points and an extending temple strap, which may be introduced in a detachable and length adjustable manner into fixing clips (7) attached to the head straps (6), are fixed to the strap fixing piece. The head strap piece thus consists of a straight and a curved piece. The crown-shaped embodiment with the elastic temple band is associated with good fitting and wearing properties and low maintenance requirements.
