Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1342666A1] The loading process involves using a loading system (1) to load containers (17) with plate-form workpieces (2). The supplied workpieces are divided into at least two strings (I, II), and are held in these strings in readiness positions (5, 6). They are then moved to an aligned position (11) from which they are laid in the containers.
