Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1348346A2] The garment features four bulge-like extensions (3,4) on the main part (2) in the shoulder and hip areas. The extension ends carry connecting elements (5,6). The extensions of the hip area have a length, which - combined with the bottom edge of the main section - corresponds to the periphery of a human body. The garment is preferably for women and has rings as connecting elements in the breast area. Strip-like garment components are sewn on to the rings. The connecting elements on the shoulder extensions are hooks suspended into the rings.
