Abstract (en)

The new tile comprises three complementary parts, a mixed part (3) with a step (3.1) in its trough (3.2); an arch (4) to prevent longitudinal rocking motion of the mixed tile (3), having a reduced depth and a greater curvature than the cover (3.3), and placed antagonistic to the step (3.1); and a short segment of an Arab trough (5) with a greater depth than the step (3.1) that defines the alignment of troughs and covers of Arab roofs and which is provided with two ridges (5.1) to prevent rain water from returning, both aligned transversally, with the Arab trough part (5) receiving the two parts (3) and (4) so that the upper edge of the ridge (5.1) of the Arab trough part (5) does not touch the inner face of the step (3.1) of the mixed tile (3).
