Abstract (en)
[origin: WO02052095A2] The invention relates to a method and a device for ironing items of clothing with sleeves, especially shirts and blouses, by means of a form finisher comprising an inflatable bag which is placed inside the item of clothing when it is being ironed. The inflatable bag extends to the sleeves of the item of clothing. In order for the sleeves to be ironed in a smoother manner, the ends of the inflatable bag can be provided with a reinforcement which extends to the sleeves. Also, in order to enable the vents, which are situated above the sleeves, to keep their shape ( the overlap and underlap), the inflatable bag can also be supplied therefor with a reinforcement. An inner tensioning mechanism which inside inserted in the area of the sleeve can improve further the smoothness even further.
