Abstract (en)

[origin: US2002112034A1] The invention permits requests for certification information for a certification that has been performed for a product, a service, a system, an organizational process, etc. For this purpose, an Internet address and an identification number appear in a check region of a certification symbol issue by the test institute. With the identification number, a data record associated with the certification can be accessed from a database that is accessible via the Internet.
