Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1380509A1] The method for centring print on the wrapper (3) of packs of items (2) involves an initial calibration step in which correct centring of a first print in a first wrapper (3) containing a first pack of items (2) is predetermined. <??>The corresponding reference data is acquired and saved in electronic control means (11). <??>The method then involves a normal operating cycle in which the data relative to each wrapper (3) being formed is compared with the reference data to verify correct print centring and, if the print is incorrectly positioned relative to the data saved, suitable corrective action is activated, to be imparted, by the control means (11), to the operating parts of the machine which implements the method. <IMAGE>
