Abstract (en)

A radio communication terminal (1) comprising data processing means for controlling terminal functions, and attaching means (27) for releasable attachment of a housing or cover (30) to the terminal, wherein said terminal comprises a multipath connector (17) connected to the data processing means, and wherein said multipath connector includes a terminal system connector, and a housing connector for communicative connection of an attached housing to the data processing means. The housing or cover also comprises functional means that are adapted to modify or to add a feature to the terminal. New functionalities can therefore be added to the terminal by replacing the housing or cover. <IMAGE>
