Abstract (en)

The novel security method for protection of articles against unauthorized removal from a protected area, comprises the steps of affixing a security tag (1) to each article (3) by application and curing of a fluid medium (4) that is curable to form the tag (1) as a label adhering to the article (1). The curable medium (4) comprises a responding material (5), e.g. suspended as particles or fibres, responsive to an interrogation signal for generation and emission of a detectable signal. <IMAGE>
