Abstract (en)
[origin: FR2825733A1] The wall facing consists of a series of basic panels (2), each shaped to give the appearance of natural stones (11) separated by joint lines (12), and having recesses (3, 4) for key or half-key stones (5, 6). The panels are made in flat shapes for wall surfaces and with chamfered edges for internal and external corners, and they all have tongues (10) on an upper or lower edge to create gaps for subsequent filling with a jointing mortar.
