Abstract (en)

[origin: WO02098775A1] The invention relates to devices and a method for inserting sheet-type products into a case using a stamp. According to the invention, the surface of a stamp (12) comprises at least one recess and/or through-opening (13), and can have essentially larger dimensions than those of known systems. In this way, insertion by means of a stamp can be reliable and use the inside of the case effectively for stacking sheet-type products.
