Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1405959A1] The removable partition has a housing (2) for receiving a long part (3). The partition consists of two sides (4) assembled together to form a tubular housing with three folding lines (5) parallel to the edge and distributed along the other edges assembling means and retaining means for spacing the two sides. The edge (12) of the side located perpendicularly to the housing longitudinal axis acts as a locking means.
