Abstract (en)
[origin: WO0149151A1] A baby changing mat (2) has a rigid base (10) supporting shoulder and waist straps (14, 16; 22, 24) to anchor the upper torso of the baby to the mat. The mat (2) is provided with heel recesses (42, 44) for receiving the heels of a carer seated on the floor. When the carer kneels on the floor, the knees can engage knee recesses (46, 48). A raised peripheral wall (40) provides a barrier to fluids gravitating towards the carer. Attaching strips (50) enable an absorbent cloth (52) to be fastened to the mat in a position to receive the lower torso of the baby. The cloth (52) can be lifted at one end to provide a barrier between the baby and the carer.
