Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0190516A1] The invention relates to a lock for the suspension-mounted leaves of a horizontal sliding wall, which can be moved in a running rail. The individual leaves are each displaceably mounted in said running rail with at least one suspension device having rollers allocated to the running rail. A locking pin (3) is provided on the leaf suspension device, preferably on the last leaf, said locking pin interacting with a lock (1) which can be used adaptively at any point inside the running rail.
