Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0113286A2] The invention relates to a method for distributing goods. According to said method, the good is deposited by a person delivering said good, and secured with a lock. A common electronic key is then allocated to the lock and to a personalized terminal belonging to the recipient of the good. When said key is transmitted from the terminal to the lock, said key is compared with the key that is allocated to the lock. The good is only released if the keys match.
