Abstract (en)
[origin: WO0133500A1] A product identifier (1) and a system and process for product identification allowing a customer to store the necessary information relating to products which he intends to purchase. The product identifier (1) contains a registration media (3) that the customer has read-in and he intends on removing from the store. The data is accordingly provided to a payment calculation system for a faster and easier check-out process.
