Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0189233A2] The invention relates to a communication system or a method for wireless participation in a betting system, e.g. a lottery, football pools, horse-race betting, bingo or another betting or lottery system. The inventive communication system comprises a betting device (2), which receives and verifies the identification information of a player registered in the betting system, whereby said identification information is transmitted via a portable terminal (1) of a wireless telecommunications system and whereby the betting device (2) authorizes the participation of the player in the betting system using the portable terminal (1), dependent on the verification that the participation fee can be paid. The invention enables a player to flexibly participate in a betting or lottery system, independent of location and time.
