Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1419901A2] A transparent pocket is filled with documents via an access flap and is applied to a support surface to display the documents. The pocket is fitted with at least two fastening devices to fix onto the support surface, with one device at the top and one at the bottom of the pocket. The ends of the pocket are fitted with reinforcing strips to hold the pocket without creasing. The fastening devices can also be transparent, enabling the pocket to be applied to a window, e.g. the fastening devices can be simple suction cups. The pocket is held away from the mounting surface and can be stretched between the fastenings to prevent creasing.
