Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1424108A1] The ski (1) comprises a principal body or base (2) which comprises in the runner part a complementary longitudinal element (3) for receiving the boot retaining fixings. The base has the shape of a long beam comprising a sliding runner with the front end raised to form a tip. The complementary element has the shape of a long plate laterally limited by left and right edges. The front part is connected to the rear part by a median part.
