Abstract (en)
[origin: WO03017816A1] A drying system is provided for incorporation in a fixed shower recess. The drying system comprises; a shower recess defined by shower walls and an opening for entry into the shower recess, a water reticulation system which supplies water from a water supply to a water outlet in the shower recess; characterised in that the shower recess further comprises an air supply delivered to the space defined by the shower recess from at least one wall of the shower recess and via said water outlet. The system also includes means to control the delivery of the air supply; wherein, in operation, the air supply is delivered to the recess thereby drying the body of an occupant of the shower recess.
