Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1430797A2] In particular in cycling but also in riding a horse or a motorcycle soft crotch pads (2) are attached to the special shorts (1) or trousers worn during this activity. Independent of the material of the pad (2) itself tensions occurred at the seams, which did not expand the same way as the fabric in relation to the movements of the user, and caused injuries to the affected body areas. The new design of a pair of shorts (1) is provided with protective pads (2) joined to the fabric with several short stretches of seams facilitating an expansion of the fabric into various directions.
