Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1431507A2] The upper ends of the head cords (12, 13) joined to the slats (11) are secured to a bar which is slidably mounted in a rail (16). The rod used to alter the angle of the slats is rotated in order to move the bar backwards and forwards in order to shorten one of the head cord runs and lengthen the other, depending on the sliding direction.
