Additional support is provided by an elastic roller (5) in the middle of each centre track and supported between an upper track (15') and a lower track (15). The upper track is on the underside of an angled extension (46) of the upper track, i.e. fitted to the drawer while the lower track is on the upper side of the track fitted to the furniture carcass. The middle track also has a rear mounted roller held between upper and lower profiles of the carcass track.
