Abstract (en)
Methods and apparatus for displaying available languages supported by the content recorded on a recording medium can facilitate a user's selection of a preferred language to be used by the player in that all the available languages can be easily shown and a preferred language can be easily selected through a corresponding menu item. When a recording medium is loaded into a player for reproduction, the player first detects available languages supported by the content recorded on the recording medium, detects a country code or the like stored in the player, and determines the display order of the detected available languages based on the detected country code. The player then displays the available languages as individual menu items in the determined display order. <IMAGE>
