Abstract (en)
A cleaning assembly comprises a cleaning article and a housing for stowing the cleaning article, wherein the cleaning article has a handle (2) and a cleaning head (4), the cleaning head being releasably located at the distal end of the handle, wherein the housing contains an upright stack of replacement cleaning heads. The cleaning heads are of compact, preferably lozenge form, and are degraded by water. After use a cleaning head is released into the waste water and a replacement cleaning head is engaged from the stack. <IMAGE>
