Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1479631A1] The method for the delivery of flat objects (1), especially printed products, is such that a delivery unit (11) with at least one blower (112) installed above support elements (111) and equipped with at least one outlet hole (1121), delivers a gaseous medium through the outlet holes if the stack (2) to be loaded with the printed product has reached a predetermined position below the delivery unit so that the printed product between the support elements is blown downwards onto the stack. An independent claim is included for a device for the delivery of especially printed products.
