Abstract (en)
[origin: WO03071030A1] A papermachine belt comprises a layer for providing strength in the cross-machine direction "the cd supporting layer" and additional layers of polymeric material. One of the layers of polymeric material is provided on one side of the cd supporting layer and another of the layers of polymeric material is provided on the observe side of the cd supporting layer. The amount and type of polymeric material provided on either side of the cd supporting layer is selected so as to eliminate edge curl.
