Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1481608A1] The applicator (3) has a support (10) and application units (16) formed of hooks and/or buckles. The application units are carried by a flexible band fixed on the support. The band has a protruding part which separates the band into two portions each having the application units. A radius of curvature of the portions of the protruding part is different from each other. Independent claims are also included for the following: (a) a device for packaging and applying product (b) a make-up process.
