Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1484117A1] The method involves sorting postal items (1) in a continuous main stream (A) in a sorting machine. Unsorted and ejected (6) items are fed back to the intake (2) after their address has been verified and written into the appropriate data record, whereby items that have been returned to the intake are automatically detected as such. An independent claim is also included for the following: (a) an arrangement for implementing the inventive method.
