Abstract (en)

[origin: WO03094426A2] A communications environment includes a first portal having a first web site residing thereon and a second portal having a second web site residing thereon. The first web site is configured for providing, upon an accessing of the first web site, private communications with a first user. The second web site is configured for providing, upon an accessing of the second web site, private communications with a second user. The first and second portals are configured for providing communications between the first and second web sites and thereby provide private communications between the first and second users.
