Abstract (en)
[origin: DE10341761A1] The method for producing a slab to serve as a building element involves production of a reinforced concrete base plate with protruding grid carriers (14) and an insulation layer (16), transport and installation of this plate, and completion of the slab with site concrete (14). Independent claims are also included for: (a) a reinforced concrete base plate with protruding grid carriers and an insulation layer; (b) a method for producing such a reinforced concrete base plate.
