Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1544378A1] The method for the setting of an anchoring element (1) for reusable and permanent ceiling edge shuttering panels entails fastening the anchoring element on the wall shuttering (21) for the wall supporting the ceiling which is to be cast later. The anchoring element is fastened to the wall shuttering with the concrete mass still in a fluid state before the concreting of the supporting wall or directly after it. An independent claim is included for an anchoring element to carry out the aforesaid method and which comprises a two-part profiled rod with an upper support section (4) to which are attached means (23,25) for the fastening to the wall shuttering, and a lower section functioning as an anchoring section (2) in the wall.
