Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2004022296A1] Method for pressing precompacted flat blanks comprising the following operative stages: disposing the precompacted blanks spaced apart on a conveyor belt; driving said belt to bring that blank to be pressed below a pressing station provided with at least one upper die with which a die plate is associated; measuring the position of said precompacted blank relative to the position of the press die by suitable measurement means; comparing the measured values with corresponding preset reference values; on the basis of the result of said comparison, positioning the press die exactly above said blank and with the same orientation as the blank assumes on the conveyor belt; pressing said precompacted blank to obtain a tile.
