Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1550775A1] Connecting device has a fire protecting unit (11) arranged on one end to surround a connecting support (8) to form an elongation of the end which is connected to tubular support (7) of a sanitary body (2). An independent claim is also included for an arrangement comprising a sanitary body, especially a toilet or urinal, mounted on a building wall. Preferred Features: A widening (28) is formed on the end to form an annular chamber for the fire protecting unit. The connecting support is made into sections on one end. The connecting support has a sealing unit (9) which seals the connecting support from the tubular support of the sanitary body.
