Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1553352A1] The domestic appliance, and especially cooking appliance, has corresponding side guide elements (11) on opposite side walls of the muffle and each of which in a cooking chamber horizontal plane has a slide-in component. On each side wall at least one of the guide elements is detachably mounted independently of the other. The guide element may be directly mounted in the side wall, or the guide element may have an adaptor for the mounting in the muffle side wall. An independent claim is included for a method for the manufacture of a guide element for the support of a slide-in component in a muffle of a domestic appliance, whereby the guide element is manufactured from a rod-form fabricated component.
