Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1564348A1] Building structure comprises a dome-shaped roof (2) having a first section (3) connected to a base and a second section (4) which slides along the outer or inner contour relative to the first section to open or close an opening of the roof. The roof is semi-circular or circular and the opening extends over a circular arc of at least 90[deg], especially 90-180[deg]. The second section extends from the top region (6) up to the base. Preferred Features: The second section is divided into two segments which are connected together so that the segments move simultaneously or separately from each other.
