Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2004049816A1] Piping bags (10) including a nozzle base portion (21) that is inserted into a pouch (12) through the fill opening and pulled into wedged, sealed position within the pouch. The nozzle base portion is provided with surface dislocations which resist the dislodgment of the nozzle base under the influence of various forces to which it is or may be subjected. The nozzle also includes a cap portion (30) which is selectively matable with the base portion, and which serves inter alia to trap portions of the pouch to resist the dislodgment of the nozzle. The pouch itself may suitably form a security seal where the bag is distributed in a filled condition.
