Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2004058569A2] The invention relates to a system for packaging containers (1), particularly bottle containers, comprising a tensioning device (2) for unfolding and tensioning a wrapping material, particularly a film tube (3) that can be supplied from a packaging means supply (4). The inventive system also comprises a conveying device (5) for the container (1). The tensioning device (2) can be moved in the direction of the conveying device (5) in order to place the wrapping material over one container (1) at a time. According to the invention, the design of the system is simplified by virtue of the fact that the tensioning device (2) can be displaced in a horizontal direction.
