Abstract (en)

A simple, economical and fast process for manufacturing a "hologram-like" device fixed on an object and an apparatus for carrying out said process, wherein the process comprises the steps of preparing a micro-engraved die having a pattern thereon by using the proven technologies in the semicon industry such as photolithography, positioning a foil between the micro-engraved die and said object, and pressing the micro-engraved die against the foil either manually or automatically by using a hot stamping machine, whereby said pattern will be stamped on the foil to obtain said "hologram-like" device and whereby said "hologram-like" device is fixed on said object. <IMAGE>
