Abstract (en)

[origin: DE102004014342A1] Attachment (1.1) for a reservoir (2) for applying a flowable cosmetic agent onto the head hair is provided with a row of comb teeth (5.1). The comb teeth have a flat shape and form a tooth gap (D) between the flat sides (7). The comb teeth are each provided with a delivery duct (8) that leads into a cross duct (10) near one end (9) of the comb teeth. The flat sides are provided with the discharge openings (11) of the cross ducts. These discharge openings are arranged in a line. The delivery ducts are connected to the reservoir. Each area (12) of the discharge openings is provided with a bulge (13) that creates a narrowing (G) of the tooth gap in this area. Preferred Features: The cosmetic agent is hair dye. The attachment is constructed in two pieces from plastic injection-molded parts (20, 21).
