Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2004091954A1] The invention relates to a protective cap for motor vehicles, motor vehicle parts, or similar, which are adapted to the overall exterior shape or the shape of individual parts of an object that is to be protected and the edges of which are retained on the object that is to be protected. An entrance protector (26) is provided which comprises an entrance protector clip (27) that at least partly covers the side sill (23). The free end of the entrance protector clip (27), which faces the interior (28), is provided with at least one holding element (29) that catches a protective strip (38) located within the side sill (23).
