Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1617167A1] Artillery projectile, especially a maximum calibre projectile with a projectile body (1) with a guide strip (3), a sealing element in deformable plastic (4), a ring-shaped operating element (6), made from a relatively hard material, and an axial hollow space (12). The guide element is arranged so that in the loaded state a weapon can project either partially in the loading space or into a transition region between the loading space and the subsequent weapon tube calibre.
