Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1621706A1] A storage cupboard has a support frame onto which can be fitted outer panels and with pull out drawers holding removable trays or fitted with storage compartments. The rear of the structure has a vertically set locking strip (8) which locks onto the rear of each drawer and secures it in the retracted position. A linkage between the locking strip and a front mounted control enables the user to lock and unlock the drawer.
