Abstract (en)

[origin: WO0169487A1] A customized, consumer direct pet care product system includes a method and apparatus for customizing pet care products, including pet food, that utilizes an integrated Internet-based (item 40) customer interface and workflow process management. The system is configured to receive individual pet profiles from information provided by each customer, accept pet care product orders for each purchaser based upon the individual pet profile, control equipment runs during production to process each of the orders to manufacture and package pet care products in accordance with each customer's desires, and to track products through delivery to a customer's home.
