Abstract (en)
A neck support cushion (1) used by a passenger in a vehicle facilitates a comfortable sleeping during a journey. The new design of a support cushion (1) has a semicircular padded segment (7) for being attached to the rear area of the neck of the user and a straight segment (5) for being joined to the seatbelt (2). The straight segment (5) is provided with a central opening for accommodating the belt (2). A lateral opening provides access for moving the cushion (1).
